

The God of War and Peace

Name:

4,000 years ago in a Mayan village, which was sitting next to a cursed rainforest the tribe of Toucana were out working to farm crops and set up their supply rooms, View their enemy tribe had byed them everyone had been asleep when they had sneakily destroyed the supply rooms

Their enemy tribe was called Ikiles and the heroes of both tribe had been sworn enemy's since birth, they were called Miya and Bazlex. Miya was the leader and hero of the Toucana tribe with blonde hair and beautiful blue eyes, she was great at making shelters, cooking and farming. Bazlex was the leader of the Ikiles tribe, he had dirty hair and his tribe lived in an abandoned, dark cave full of spiders

The Ikiles tribe had been banished to the dying side of the rainforest. the gods, had seperated the two tribes before cursing the rainforest with deadly, wild beasts.

The day started like no other, as the Rainforest was darker and more wild-beast noises were growing louder towards the village. Miya - and the village - were outside harvesting the crops on the farm... suddenly a wild-beast (who worked for Bazlex) leapt out of the forest growling.

"Run!" screamed Miya, who was bagging up the carrots.

the village people were wasting no time in running from the beast. One person was left behind...Miya's baby sister.

"Alena," screamed Miya, trying to get her to move forwards. The hideous beast was right behind Alena with its deformed face and sharp teeth ready to take her back to Bazlex's mischievous tribe.
