

At Wray Common we strive to ensure that our children are equipped with the necessary skills and knowledge to deal with the online world and mobile technologies responsibly and safely. E-Safety is entwined within our school curriculum so that it has a strong presence throughout each academic year.

The online and mobile technology world is an exciting environment for children, however, can be an extremely dangerous place if a child isn't supported, guided and trained to prevent and deal with inappropriate situations. Openness and trust is key to being safe online. Children shouldn't want to shy away from telling their parents that they have seen something 'bad' online or on a social networking app for fear of losing their access to a phone or tablet.

Please take a look at our online resources below and watch out for our termly E-Safety workshops. You may wish to make an appointment with your child's class teacher or the Computing Leader – Mrs Roberts if you require more advice or have any concerns.

Restrict your child's access to unsuitable websites and limit the amount of time they can use the internet by using parental control software. There are several ways to do this: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Many internet service providers such as Sky, Virgin and BTinternet include parental options with your broadband package.</li> <li>• Use the inbuilt parent controls that are part of Windows or Mac operating systems.</li> <li>• Download one of the many apps that give extra control over smartphones and tablets.</li> <li>• Don't forget that modern games consoles have internet access –</li> </ul>	Unsuitable Internet Content Sadly, some of the most innovative, exciting websites on today's internet can be damaging for your child due to the type of content that can be accessed through them. You may want to think seriously about whether you want your child to have access to YouTube, Facebook, Skype (with webcams) and so on. A rule of thumb should be that if you are not sure what your child is accessing then try it out yourself, and restrict all use to family rooms within the house. Play and share online games with your child. Find out what they do online. If you are happy for them to play these games let them know, if you are not, explain why. Suggest	Childnet International has produced guidance for parents and carers on looking after the digital wellbeing of children and young people. This includes having an awareness of how being online can make children and young people feel, and how they can look after themselves and others when online. The guidance includes: age specific information about how children and young people are interacting with the internet; top tips to support young people at this age; and ideas to help start a conversation about digital wellbeing. https://www.childnet.com/teachers-and-professionals Consent online: resources The UK Safer Internet Centre has developed a series of resources for 3-18-yearolds focusing on the topic of consent online and how consent is asked for, given and received in different circumstances.
